A Journey Through Ramadan

With vivid language and exquisite illustrations, "When Ramadhan Comes" follows a young Muslim girl named Amina as she navigates her first Ramadan. Through Amina's eyes, we witness the daily rituals, the shared meals, and the special traditions that make Ramadan a cherished time for her family and community.

From the pre-dawn meal of suhoor to the evening prayers of taraweeh, the book paints a rich tapestry of the Ramadan experience. We observe Amina as she fasts, prays, and reflects on the teachings of the Quran. Through her journey, children learn about the significance of Ramadan as a time for self-discipline, empathy, and spiritual growth.

Celebrating Diversity and Inclusivity

"When Ramadhan Comes" is not only a story about Ramadan but also a celebration of diversity and inclusivity. Hughes portrays a world where people from different backgrounds and cultures come together to share in the spirit of this special month. Readers encounter neighbors, friends, and classmates who support and learn from Amina as she embraces her faith and traditions.

The book highlights the importance of respecting and understanding different cultures. It invites young readers to embrace the richness of world religions and to appreciate the shared values that unite us all.

A Time for Reflection and Growth

Beyond the festivities and celebrations, "When Ramadhan Comes" emphasizes the inward journey that Ramadan represents. It is a time for reflection, self-improvement, and deepening one's connection to the divine. Through Amina's experiences, children are encouraged to think about their own actions, words, and intentions.

Hughes encourages young readers to use Ramadan as an opportunity to grow in compassion, generosity, and forgiveness. He teaches the importance of helping those in need and striving to be better versions of ourselves.

A Celebration of Eid-ul-Fitr

As Ramadan draws to a close, the book culminates in the joyous celebration of Eid-ul-Fitr. We witness Amina and her family as they gather with friends and loved ones to feast, exchange gifts, and share in the festivities of this special day.

Eid-ul-Fitr marks the end of Ramadan and is a time for gratitude, reflection, and new beginnings. "When Ramadhan Comes" captures the essence of this joyous occasion, highlighting its significance as a time to celebrate community, generosity, and the blessings of faith.

A Gift for Young Readers

"When Ramadhan Comes" is a beautifully crafted book that offers young readers a window into a world of cultural celebration and spiritual growth. It is a story that will resonate with children from all backgrounds, fostering understanding, empathy, and a deeper appreciation for the diversity of the human experience.

Whether it is shared in a classroom, read at bedtime, or enjoyed as a family, this heartwarming and informative story is a valuable addition to any child's bookshelf. It is a book that will be cherished, revisited, and shared for generations to come.

Immerse yourself and your loved ones in the spirit of Ramadan with Arthur Middleton Hughes's "When Ramadhan Comes." Discover the joy, unity, and spiritual journey that this special month brings to Muslims around the world. Embrace diversity, foster understanding, and inspire young hearts to grow in compassion, empathy, and the pursuit of a meaningful life.
